Jardin Credenza

The Jardin Credenza was created in the tradition of repoussé, a painstaking process that involves creating low-relief panels with raised patterns onto which thin brass sheets are hammered. The panels that make up the doors of this cabinet feature leafy motifs and are made of reclaimed teak. Where the cabinet is not clad in the brass-finished metal, the wood is finished in walnut. This is a substantial cabinet at 84 inches long with six doors and adjustable shelves
