Arcachon White Chandelier

Tom Caldwell took one of the most popular chandelier shapes in our lineup and gave it a pale and pretty new life in the Arcachon Chandelier. The wrought iron frame has been covered in crushed shells to give it a heavy dose of tone-on-tone texture. Turbino shells dangle from the rings set in the arms that arch out and down or up and in to make the frame of the white chandelier a study in gracefulness. This is a design that fits swimmingly into our island-inspired offerings
